Create your first "rule"

The censorship environment you create for your trainees is made up of a series of rules.

A rule consists of an action and a target. An action is the type of censorship that you want to apply. A target is what you want to censor. You can explore actions and targets below.

Create a profile

You can combine rules together to create more complex censorship environment for your students. You can use the plus symbol to add a rule, and the minus symbol to remove one. The resulting list of rules create a censorship profile.

Try adding and removing rules to create a profile below.
